Multi award-winning Cake Artist, Rosie Dummer AKA Rosie Cake Diva, is a regular on TV and Radio in the UK and is currently starring in Channel 4's hit series, Extreme Cake Makers.

Initially the first female helicopter pilot with the British Army, Rosie flew Lynx Anti-Tank Helicopters with the Army Air Corps before retiring to have a family. She made a career step-change by joining the baking community and combines that with her role as a presenter, public speaker and MC, having co-hosted the Cake Masters Magazine awards for the past 5 years. She has had her own TV series on The Craft Channel and presented her own shows on BBC Radio.

With over a million followers on Facebook and a popular YouTube Channel, Rosie shows Bakers of all standards how to make their own impressive cakes.

Her cakes range from winning Wedding Cake of the Year Award in 2012 to making life-sized edible creations that have been eaten by Celebrities on TV and even a 7ft Soldier that has been eaten by a Battalion of Grenadier Guards at Buckingham Palace.

Despite being known for her oversized creations, as a Craftsy Instructor, Rosie excels at teaching skills that apply to beginners as well as seasoned professionals.

Although a regular at the UK's major cake shows and festivals Rosie is excited to be making her first ever trip to the Australian shows.
